This 1930's semi-detached house is situated in a residential area in the city. Their street is on a bus route giving easy and quick access into town. They are a ten minute walk from the coast and just 20min walk to the Botanic Gardens. Edinburgh is well known as a beautiful city, steeped in history, interesting architecture, thriving university, a passion for the creative arts, the famous Edinburgh Festival and Fringe Festival in the summertime, and a wealth of individual shops and eating places. This is a marvellous place to holiday!

The house has some characterful features, a small kitchen but with good cooking facilities, and a good sized living room with a TV/fire stick. There is a downstairs bathroom with loo, bath and shower.

The good sized garden is enclosed, surrounded by a big hedge, so lots of privacy, although little dogs can escape through it! It is mostly laid to lawn with a patio area, outdoor seating, and a BBQ can be available. There is also a big trampoline.

The family attend City on a Hill, www.cityonahill.org.uk They are a multi site church with congregations of various sizes. More info on their inspiring website!
